Enhancing opportunities for professional development of adult education staff

Grundtvig grant system to attend international courses

Adult education staff can apply for a Grundtvig grant to attend an international in-service training course. This grant system is run by the National Agencies in all LLP countries.

Grundtvig international course offer

These international in-service training courses are provided Europe wide by adult education organisations in a Grundtvig project/network context or on an individual basis.

GINCO

GINCO can help

course organisers and stakeholders:

- 1. To improve the quality of Grundtvig European training provision and its accreditation systems.
- 2. To share expertise with other (potential) Grundtvig course organisers.
- 3. To strengthen the cooperation between the relevant stakeholders: adult education providers, LLP National Agencies, the European Commission and other.
- To contribute to their professionalization concerning Grundtvig course provision and delivery
- 5. To help expand the Grundtvig course offer in LLP countries
- 6. To support the dissemination and sustainability of the Grundtvig courses

Grundtvig International Network of Course Organisers

Target groups

The GINCO network target groups are adult education staff from Grundtvig course providers or willing to run Grundtvig courses, adult education providers in general, LLP National Agencies, educational policy makers at European, national and regional levels.

The consortium

The GINCO partnership consists of 21 organisations from 14 different countries, with considerable experience in the relevant fields, ready to build this European wide network.

A first international conference on quality of & ICT use in Grundtvig courses will be organised in Izmir, Turkey, 27 – 30 October 2010.

A network of (potential) Grundtvig course organisers

GINCO wants to network actual and potential Grundtvig course organisers, not only offering a forum for cooperation and exchange of expertise but also offering support for development, promotion of access, quality of delivery, accreditation and sustainability of their courses. This network will be organised through different strands of activities: research, production of relevant material, conferences, training days, Internet based networking activities etc.

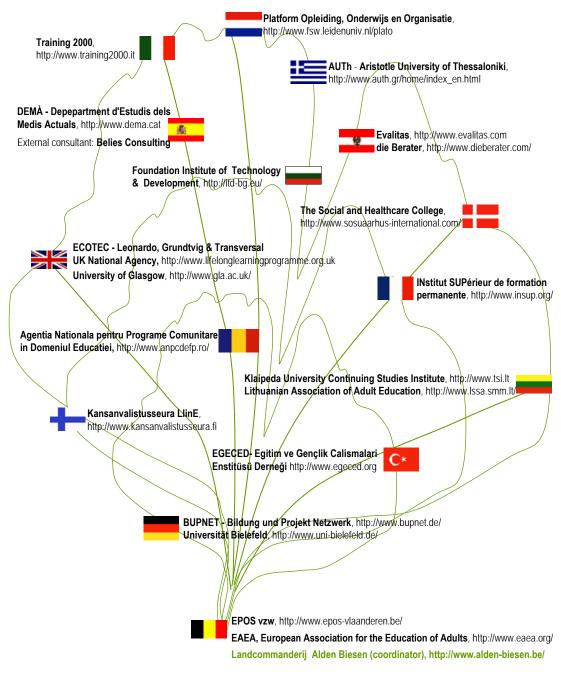

Visit our website: www.ginconet.eu

Are you an adult education provider offering Grundtvig courses or willing/planning to do so? GINCO can provide useful material and can bring you in contact with colleagues and help share material and expertise. More information and networking activities on the network website: www.ginconet.eu.

WWW.GINCONET.EU

Enhancing opportunities for professional development of adult education staff

WWW.GINCONET.EU